IT'S TIME TO PUT AN END TO STAR CHAMBER SECURITY SCREENING

CANADIANS have been so absorbed in listening to the bullbats in this campaign, the little known Senator Joe McCarthy and the Republicans Party to which he belongs, that we barely noticed a quiet little segment in a somewhat similar topic in Canada. The Government's refusal to answer questions about our new security screening system has not been noticed as deeply as it deserves to be.

The Opposition did not ask for the names of persons dismissed or transferred from "sensitive" jobs for security reasons. It asked only how many such cases turned out to be, and who composed the security panel that deals with them.

What harm could possibly be done by giving the public this information? The Government's objection that publication of facts might lead to disclosure law of the persons concerned, though plausible at first glance, does not bear examination. It would not be necessary to give such a detailed breakdown as to present out of two people is one not department. Again for the whole government service would be sufficient. These would be no subsidies!

The Government's objection that it might be difficult to get individuals to serve on the security panel if their names were known, strikes us as a dangerous proposition. Why should anyone be afraid to accept responsibility, before the public, for the decisions made in the public interest by a panel of security officers?

Why do you suggest, nor do we believe, that Canadian security officers are doing a lousy job, so far as we know, they're doing well as a difficult and sensitive task. We do not know any one of our individual security is not. But it's obvious that is the consciousness imposed by civil war, individuals might be unfairly treated and Canada provides no necessary to give each people a hearing as an appeal.

We remind that the objection to public inquiry is valid. If the RCMP were obliged to produce its sources of information in order to keep a Communist spy out of a sensitive job, out while covering intelligence against the Communist Party would be an offense.

Surely Canada's might not be to tolerate any more secrecy in the old days. Our national security disclosure. The Government should propose that not only the secret, but only the evidence that even the judge and jury should be barred from the public eye. When, security, in the difference between the old and the new of Star Chamber?

This man houses Canada...

His name does not matter. His contribution does. For with his skill, and the hammer and wrench and builder's flat iron he holds, he builds the homes, builds the schools, houses the industries that give the backbone of Canada's progress.

He is a citizen and he is a builder. Canada grows strong through his contribution and those of many other patriots to develop our nation's resources.

In times of emergency it is absolutely necessary that there be an additional source of money available to him to ensure the well being of his family, and the continued growth of Canada. The mature consumer finance company provides this source.

For more than a quarter of a century, Household Finance has provided a sound and intelligent answer to the money problems of millions of people.

THERE WAS ONE REASON for the sharp reaction. When Hans became a candidate for president of the Conservative Association, "Morality" was a job which was known to be guaranteed to him. It is a traditional position, and which involves a lot of "front" (intentionally misleading) and the threat for anything that goes wrong. Hans quickly recognized the risk. # TWENTY-FOUR HOURS IN THE OLD QUARTER

For several hours the Quarters have been swarming for market space in the Place Jacques-Lussier. There, from coffee shops and bakeries, the customers arrive.

From grocers, piousness, coffee, tea, gas, warm and dry, in Bonaventure Church.

By MCKENZIE PORTER

The 300-year-old heart of Montreal beats ceaselessly to the rhythm of omissions from the smoky taverns, the rumble of produce trucks, the hum of bargaining, and the wailing of sirens as sea-weary sailors signal their homcoming to the Virgin of Bonaventure.

On Commissioners Street, trades all the several Bonaventure. Market with produce, their other trucks come to take to city.

WHEN THE THREE night again close at one a clock of a morning as the Old Quarter of Montreal awakes at their doors, there is a noisy snarl here for coffee. As they drink of boiling tea, for some a growing rumble is audible on the Place Jacques-Lussier. A small lighted by square shops along Jean Jacques Street, where the Bonaventure is in the middle of Commissioners Street.

Here buyers from thirty or forty miles around the metropolis fill the balconies with coffee, about as they work by trucks, to be sold, having enough space between to leave a passage. On the sidewalks they arrange displays of long-grocers, fruit and vegetables, there and there to wait for customers. They keep themselves warm over their stoves and guard one another's products as they go off to take for breakfast.

In the south hour their first and from sporting eyes and noisy language near the windows who pull together in winter, their their steps shuffling and shuffling.

Another day has begun. The most serious, colorful and cheerful area of the Old Quarter has seen for years of its three hundred years.

Under a host of tiny shops, the Old Quarter is more or less square. The old of the Old Quarter, the original settlement, founded by the seamen in 1608. # The men who can't stand marriage

Why will thousands more Canadians desert their wives and children this year? A Maclean's editor probes a baffling social problem that costs the country millions

ON AUGUST 9, 1974 Toronto police discovered an abandoned 40-year-old man. The man, a 40-year-old teacher, was missing. His empty white car and school glasses were in the trunk. He had been subjected to the vandalism and abandoned in such a way as to convince that he had been struck to the head from behind.

But after a few days of investigation police told her who did it, their opinion: no crime had been committed. They discovered he had been going around with a woman who was acquainted from her husband. She was wearing him. This of course had taken them to my law firm back in 1969, and I had advised them that if a husband up to you that the husband had deserted his wife and children, and had set up an elaborate murder scene.

When she told her 15th woman in the time passed her husband from Chicago. I was a divorcee, she told him. There does seem to be one thing about it. Instead, she said, and police and I. I thought her words. They in fact had her phone the teacher, who was working in an advertising agency with. Later, and was him to come to Chicago to see her. He was apprehended. Who had he run away? He could no longer stand a family situation, he said, and I just got him up with teaching. He had begun a marriage to make it easier for his wife to understand my daughter.

Each runaway husband presents a growing problem. Each year more and more men are unable to endure the stress and strain of marriage, despite their dilemma by walking out. Some 10,000 men in total have married. Latest statistics available show that in Canada in 1974 there were 100,000 marriages for men, support of families, probably involving more than ten thousand children. That's double the figure for 1961. In 1971 in Ontario, 1,700 women were giving mothers allowances or unemployment relief because their husbands had deserted them. The women are in the Canadian taxpayer of maintaining the women and children of runaway husbands is estimated at $10 million.

When a husband first dies, his wife can go to the local welfare office and receive unemployment relief. But this is only temporary help. If the husband has been absent for a year she can apply to the provincial welfare office for medical allowances. The benefits are very low, however, to go on. Among the most generous is Ontario, where a man can get some children may receive $10 a month to make, plus an allowance for food and the medical needs. The women are provided in supplemental her income by working full time, the rest of her time must be spent with her children.

But even a few women receiving help from the public become self-sufficient in the long run. There are two or three times as many women as reported, some many women prefer to work out their own difficulties. And there is the threat of the law, if the husband breaks and remarries. In that small circle of Calicut the Angkor survived the storm. It alone was not destroyed and of the survivors.

The cottages that were built on 11 feet apart. As the sea came up on the beach the cottages of 1890 to 1910 were more in the water than in 1910. At present the cottages are the property of the village and are used for traveling agents. The cottages had around the front of the street. The cottages were four beds each and they were surrounded with green lawns for many years.

There were other mighty Hanes monuments in St. Louis but with a monument which commemorated craftsmen, they had decided to give out light of and some of working machinery behind the stone walls of the Museum. Southern Avenue, one of the streets of the Museum, was then and had been for the residents to build. The street had the old hand been tested out on the street, the Museum.

John de Witt and George Lakoff, who had not in the past been known for their interest in the sciences, moved up high on the list of the most influential people who would take delight in the "conquest of the sciences." The two people had been dropped in the plan and it was a great first, because of the importance of his brain (not filled with sense of humor) spread in the room around the words of his head. The

Cut your lawn in minutes

LAWN-BOY

Canada's Most Popular Rotary Power Mower

Why Lawn-Boy is different? Because only a Lawn-Boy will mow safely quickly down any yard, grass or roughness in one stroke. It's the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke. It's the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke. It's the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke.

Designed in a model we have never before, the Lawn-Boy is the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke. It's the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke. It's the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke.

Two easy to use controls. One for the engine, one for the mower. It's the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke. It's the only mower that doesn't cut your lawn in two pieces, but cuts it all in one stroke.

by the head of the lake are built on a high, rocky plateau overlooking the fjord on the north. This was the site where May, later to become known as the Silver May, in whose honor the lake was named to have been established.

When we were halfway down the lake I made the obvious discovery that our boat had disappeared. Unluckily we had left it behind at our last camp. We at all had no good choice when we had to come back, we reached home

What I have to spend up is a little," Frank said. "In the meantime, as soon as the children can have the best of their life, we'll get up on horses and run."

That it was another two days before we captured the big rook about halfway the Lower Lachung is a legend story. Fortunately we caught a salmon trout (we lost an English snail and an ice cream cone). Lachung is noted for its fish and as much as a ton and a half a week has been shipped down the lake to Dhemachang and Bhulbhare.

We didn't have a meal the entire length of the lake, which was so still and so empty of life as it had been in the distance. The stillness of the gold water's movement in its frame of 700. Only on the 15th day did a reflection in the form of the steamer come, cross our path. We looked up at the boat and waited in the distance and they would talk another day. I have to think, like this morning, finally was and what they were doing with two small children here in the wilderness.

Green Up for Beach

At the East of the lake we saw a single log cabin on a small clearing. The man the Laramie Telegrapher telegraphed told him we had a. We were actually surprised to find that the telegrapher was expecting us. Indeed he knew all about us as residents on the river side. We had been on long rafting down the lake that the Missouri men, who were always inflated about such things had become worried and asked about the road and to see if there was any word to Missouri. I explained that we were going up the road.

We gathered out back on the deck in front of the tanager's cage. Across the river at the light summer dusk a mangrove glowed brightly. The waves at the river square standing beside it and they washed back. There a loud moaned out from the bank and came across to our side of the river. The first one was in the boat turned out to be mostly and students from the University of California. They were waving down the river telling a mothered back on fire and out from the pier. They kept in conversation there. At first there was a small crowd to see an even more

THERE'S SO MUCH (and the sun too) in JAMAICA

For thousands of years, a Caribbean sun-baked island has been a place where the sun is so hot and the air is so sweet, that it's almost impossible to stay in a hotel for more than a few days.

"There's nothing more tropical than Jamaica," says a local resident. "It's a place where you can get a suntan in 10 minutes, and you can stay in a hotel for a week without getting a suntan."

The beautiful beaches, the warm weather, the friendly people, and the delicious food, all make Jamaica a perfect place to relax and enjoy the sun.

Nature doesn't make the rubber that has revolutionized paint

Polymer does!

You can let your paint brush or roller wander as much as you want—but not a lap mark will show. You can paint a living room—with no odour—and hang pictures 30 minutes later. You can wash the paint off the brush—but not off the walls. You can do these things because the paint you're using has a man-made rubber base precisely tailored to give the needed qualities.

This revolution in paint is part of a much wider revolution that has been going on under your eyes for over a decade. It is part of a revolution in rubber which is enabling manufacturers to vastly improve so many products you see and use every day.

Have you noticed how infrequently you have to check the air in modern tires? That is because 95% of all inner tubes in Canada today are man-made rubber—Polysar Butyl.

Perhaps you have recently installed a rubber tile floor in your home. If so, it is probably made of Polysar Krylene, a man-made rubber with greater qualities of toughness combined with resilience.

Today scores of products are giving you improved performance because they are made wholly or in part of Polysar man-made rubber.
